The deck should start with one clear claim

- State the question in one line
- Name the setting or application
- Preview the main evidence
- End with the implication

Replacement rule

Keep the structure, then swap in your own argument and examples.

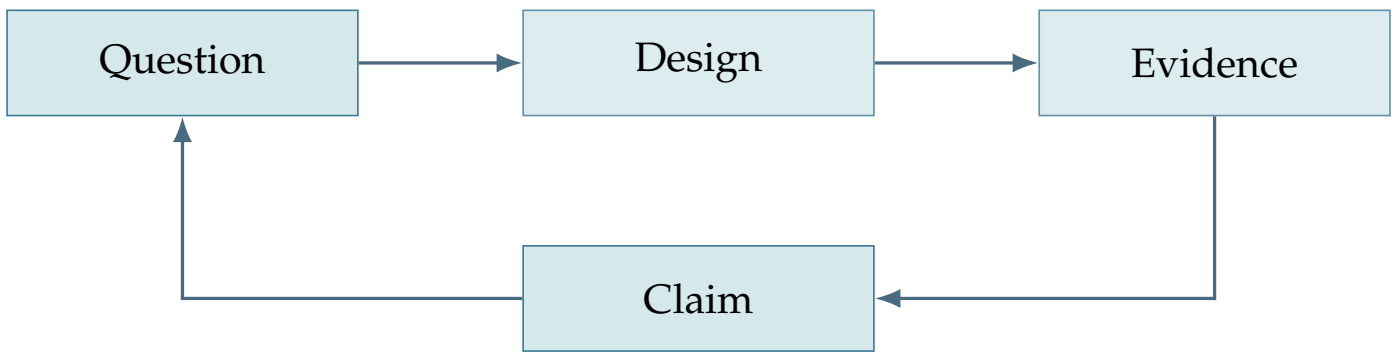
A reusable talk needs a simple arc

1. Motivation
2. Research design
3. Main result
4. Interpretation

Template note

Use short titles, sparse bullets, and one message per slide.

A simple diagram can organize the argument



Use figures when the pattern matters most

Compact tables should support one message

Group	Mean	Change	N
Baseline	1.25	–	120
Treatment	1.47	0.22	118
Comparison	1.32	0.07	122

Table: Replace values with the smallest table needed for the slide.

Reading rule

Use the title to state the message; use the table to document the evidence.

Close with the strongest implication

- Restate the main answer
- Explain why the result matters
- Point to the next decision

Final takeaway

Replace this line with the single sentence the audience should remember.
